Featured Sessions

Hacking the Writing Workshop: Redesign with Making in Mind

Presented By: Angela Stockman
November 22, 2018 | 9:00 AM - 3:30 PM
Audience: K-8 Educators, Literacy Leaders and Coaches

Agility matters. While our schools push for proficiency, the world continues to demand something different. Something more. Something that seems ever changing. The fact is that writing is so much bigger than print today, and it's changing shape minute by minute. When we fail to acknowledge the changing shape of writing and the varied languages, mediums, and modalities that today's writers use to communicate their messages, we fail to help our students reach their full potential, too. Creating a future-ready writing workshop doesn't mean evading print, but it does require us to pursue a far greater vision. This session will start the conversation and empower your early beginnings.

You Are the Strategy: Relationship-Based Teaching

Presented By: Dr. David Tranter
November 22, 2018 | 9:00 AM - 3:30 PM
Audience: K-12 Teachers

This session will introduce Relationship-Based Teaching. It will examine its essential connection to modern educational methods, and the critical role it plays in supporting student success in all of its forms. It will also demonstrate how relationships form the basis for effectively promoting student mental health and well-being. The essential elements of what it truly means to be relationship-based will be addressed, along with practical examples of how educators can incorporate the approach into their classrooms, schools, and organization as a whole.

Two Teachers and the Quest to Engage and Empower Adolescents

Presented By: Penny Kittle
April 12, 2019 | 9:00 AM - 3:30 PM
Audience: Grades 6-12 Teachers

Moving students beyond compliant reading and writing and into engaged reading and writing takes focused planning. How can we create a volume of practice that improves reading, writing, speaking and listening? We will study a balance of opportunities for students to demonstrate independence and increased proficiency across a lesson, a unit, and a year.
